Remington launches innovative mobile commerce site

London, 8th November 2012

Spectrum Brands, a global consumer products company with market-leading brands, announced today that an mCommerce enabled, mobile-optimised version of its UK personal care Remington website has been launched.

Designed and built by leading mobile marketing agency, Incentivated, the site is a transcoded version of the brand's desktop website, providing access to the full range of Remington products from hair dryers to electric shavers.

The innovation for this transcoded site (<http://uk.remington-europe.mobi>) comes through the UI and UX brought to life through template designs and menu structures. Echoing the design elements of the website, Incentivated have enabled dynamic, split-screen image-based menus, using swipe gestures for intuitive interactivity and ease of searching and browsing through the site.

The split screen allows for Remington "hero" products to be promoted – and for these heroes to be dynamically updated as offers change or new products are released. Because the site is transcoded, any content changes made to the website are automatically fed through to the mobile site without any further editing being needed.

Secure integrated payment technology allows product purchases to be completed through the mobile-optimised checkout.

Katie McLean, European Digital Manager, Spectrum Brands: "We are pleased to be able to bring our products to our customers through their mobile devices. Presenting a cookie-cutter site to our customers was never an option for Remington. They, and we, are more sophisticated than that and we are delighted to be able to provide them with a fully transactional site that maintains our brand integrity."

Jonathan Bass, Managing Director, Incentivated: “Mobile is fundamentally different from desktop browsers and you can’t just pare down a site to ‘make it work’ for mobile. Being able to deliver this site for Remington which pays as much respect to their brand and the design challenge in providing customers with an experience that works with the phone’s capabilities and strengths, such as the swipe for touchscreen phones and ‘click to call’ buttons.

We believe this is another great example of a company understanding that mobile is critical to their future success, but not compromising their brand in order to deliver for their customers.”
